How to play

Bible trivia scored like baseball. Pick a hit, answer a question of that difficulty, and if you're right, the batter and every runner move that many bases.

Single	Double	Triple	Home Run
easy	medium	hard	very hard
1 base	2 bases	3 bases	everyone scores

Without the app

You need: four bases (chairs, paper plates or tape on the floor), a list of questions sorted by difficulty, two teams and someone to keep score.

1. Set out first, second and third base and home plate around the room.
2. Split into two teams and flip a coin to see who bats first.
3. The batter calls a hit: Single, Double, Triple, or Home Run. The pitcher (the teacher) reads a question from that level.
4. A right answer sends the batter to that base, and everyone already on base moves up the same number of bases.
5. A wrong answer is an out. After three outs, the teams switch.
6. Play as many innings as you have time for. The team with more runs wins.

On your TV: Ballgame

1. Choose Ballgame, then a deck: the whole Bible, one testament, or a themed deck.
2. Set the game up. Settings stay fixed once the first pitch is thrown.
3. Pick a team name for each side and toss the coin. The color that lands face up bats first.
4. Before each question, the batting team picks a hit: Single (easy), Double (medium), Triple (hard), Home Run (very hard).
5. Answer right and it's a hit: the batter and every runner move that many bases, and anyone who reaches home scores.
6. Answer wrong, or let the 20-second timer run out, and it's an out. Runners stay where they are.
7. Three outs end the half-inning, the bases clear, and the other team bats.
8. After the last inning, the team with more runs wins. Equal runs is a tie; there are no extra innings.

Home Run Derby

1. Choose Home Run Derby, then 1 or 2 players and a deck.
2. Choose 10 or 20 swings each; with two players, a coin toss decides who swings first and turns alternate.
3. For each swing, pick a distance: 350 ft, 400 ft, 450 ft, and 500 ft. Farther means a harder question.
4. Answer right and it's a home run of that distance. Answer wrong and the ball falls short.
5. Your score is the total feet of your home runs. There's no timer, so take your time. The best 10 scores for each deck go on the device's high-score board.
